Strange Prescott Accident
PRESCOTT, Ark.—(P)—E. B. Wise, of Little Rock, engineer of the Missouri Pacific's Sunchine Special, received treatment at a hospital here Monday for grave injuries suffered in a strange anti-climax to a relatively harmless accident.

Wise brought his train to a stop near here Sunday night in time to avoid crushing a car that had stalled on the track. When the engineer came down from his cab to assist in removing it the car toppled over in a ditch, crushing him.

The car's only passenger, the Rev. Brice Barton, rural pastor, was hurt but slightly.

State Supreme Court
LITTLE ROCK—(P)—The Arkansas Supreme Court held Monday that the widow of the late W. R. Dyess, WPA administrator for Arkansas, who was killed in the Goodwin plane crash January 14, 1936, was entitled to double-indemnity payments on $15,000 life insurance policies.

Local Committee Named in Jobless Census for Hope

Mayor Graves Appoints Group to Work With Postmaster

TO BEGIN TUESDAY
President Roosevelt Urges Quick Return of Report Cards

Appointment of a Hope committee was announced Monday by Mayor Albert Graves to assist in the local end of the national unemployment census which will be undertaken Tuesday by the Postoffice Department.

Tuesday every postoffice in America will distribute report cards to residences, postoffice boxholders, and to callers at the general-delivery window in the postoffice, asking jobless persons to register.

"The cards are to be returned to the postoffice, or given to the letter-carrier. No postage is required."

Mayor Graves' committee, appointed at the request of Postmaster Robert M. Wilson, follows:

Charles Reynerson, chairman; Wayne P. Fletcher, Robert M. Wilson, Mrs. Sallie M. Broening, Mrs. Flora Cotton Elater, G. T. Cross, Edward Wayne, John Guthrie, Guy E. Bayse, Wayne H. England, the Rev. W. R. Hamilton, the Rev. Bert Webb, A. W. Stubbsman and A. H. Wushburn.

Roosevelt Explains It
WASHINGTON—(P)—President Roosevelt appealed to the nation Sunday night for whole-hearted co-operation in a "complete, honest and accurate" census of the unemployed this week.

In a country-wide radio broadcast from the White House, he said the huge task to be inaugurated Tuesday was necessary to furnish facts upon which the administration hopes to base a sound, long-range program of re-employment. Unemployment, he observed, had delayed the balancing of the national budget.

Assessing that unemployment relief is "of course, not the permanent cure," Mr. Roosevelt said, "The permanent cure lies in finding suitable jobs in industry and agriculture for all willing workers. It involves co-operative effort and planning which will lead to the absorption of this unused manpower in private industry."

The American Federation of Labor, in its latest estimate of unemployed placed the number of those without work in September at 8,000,000.

While the president spoke, Census Administrator John D. Biggers was making final preparations for distribution through the postal service of more than 85,000,000 census forms which will go to every adult in the land on Tuesday. Those wholly without work or only partly employed are asked to fill out the questionnaires and return them, postage free, to the government.

From the answers, which must be in by midnight, November 20, the administration hopes to determine:

The number of unemployed and those who work only part time; their age groups and geographical locations and the type of work for which they are best suited.

Tariff Damaging Trade in Cotton

Foreign Nations Buy Cotton Where They Can Sell Own Goods

WASHINGTON—(P)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace described international trade barriers Sunday as the greatest handicap to Southern cotton producers.

His annual report to President Roosevelt urged immediate remedies to stimulate foreign consumption of the South's bumper cotton crop. Other recommendations for cotton included:

A crop adjustment program to halt—

Used Clothing Is Asked Tuesday for Students in Need

P-T. A. Pleads for Public Support in City-Wide Canvass

TO CALL AT HOMES

Clothing Will Be Sorted and Then Remodeled by the WPA.

Mrs. Charles O. Thomas, P-T. A. welfare chairman, appealed for city-wide support Monday as committees prepared to canvass the city Tuesday for old clothing that will be remodeled and donated to needy Hope school children.

Mrs. Thomas said the need for clothing was urgent, pointing out that the list of absentees from school was longer than usual Monday because improper clothing made it impossible for children to attend school during rainy weather.

Unless clothing is provided at once additional students will be forced to drop out of school because of rain and cold weather, Mrs. Thomas said.

A canvass of the entire residential area of Hope will be made by 28 members of the P-T. A. units of Hope Tuesday in search of used clothing, shoes, boots, coats or any other wearing apparel.

To Canvass City
 The committees for each school will meet at the high school building at 8:45 a. m. where they will be assigned streets and given final instruction for the one-day canvass.

All persons having used clothing, old shoes or any think that can be worn that they wish to donate are asked to have these articles ready when the solicitors call. If you have additional coat racks not in use, the collectors will take them.

After the clothing is once gathered it will be hung on these racks and assorted, then remodeled by the WPA sewing room and distributed to the needy children of Hope.

Persons who do not have old clothing—but wish to donate to this cause—may contribute cash which will be used to purchase lining for coats, thread and other materials that will go to help remodel clothes.

Merchants of Hope will not be canvassed for cash—but broken lots of buttons, snaps, shoe strings and any other articles will be appreciated. A merchant wishing to donate such material may call Mrs. Thomas, telephone 746, and a messenger will be sent for it.

This canvass for needy school children was originally planned for last week, but was postponed because of the Little Rock Methodist conference to allow Methodist women time to sort used clothing that they wish to donate.

At 8:45 a. m. Tuesday
 The committees for the one-day canvass are asked to meet at the high school building at 8:45 a. m. Tuesday to be assigned to streets. The committees:

For the high school—Mrs. J. R. Williams, chairman; Mrs. Jim Henry, Mrs. Ched Hall, Mrs. E. P. Young, Mrs. C. Cook, Mrs. Dewey Bush, Mrs. C. B. Presley.

Grades school—Mrs. Charles O. Thomas, chairman; Mrs. Cecil Weaver, Mrs. A. B. Patton, Mrs. A. E. Mcnani, Mrs. James Bowden, Mrs. S. L. Murphy, Mrs. Mangus Jones.

Brookwood school—Mrs. R. D. Franklin, chairman; Mrs. A. E. Stonequist, Mrs. A. W. Stubbsman, Mrs. E. L. Archer, Mrs. Willard Hargraves, Mrs. George Duke, Mrs. Dewey Hendrix.

Pulstey school—Mrs. R. T. Wilson, chairman; Mrs. Mack Duffie, Mrs. Logan Bailey, Mrs. Cline Franks, Mrs. Edwin Stewart, Mrs. Martin Pool, Mrs. Sweeney Copeland.

The committees will canvass each Ward in Hope.

Roosevelt Speaks for Remedying of Injustices in Tax

Pledges to Remove Obstacles to "Productive Enterprise"

$5,000 EXEMPTION

House Committee Fixes Figure—Senator Miller Sworn in WASHINGTON—(P)—President Roosevelt recommended the removal of tax injustices to "encourage productive enterprises" Monday in submitting a four-point legislative program to congress.

In his message opening the special session the president asked for "early action" on legislation on farm crop control, wages and hours, reorganization of the executive branch, and the planning of natural resources.

Mr. Roosevelt did not ask action on tax revision at the special session.

Meanwhile, the house tax subcommittee agreed tentatively to exempt all corporations having a $5,000 net income, or less, from the undistributed profits tax.

Miller Takes Oath

WASHINGTON—(P)—John E. Miller took the oath of office Monday as the senator from Arkansas succeeding the late Joseph T. Robinson.

Tells Thrilling Story Sea Rescue

Sharks Pulled Seamen Through Life-Rings—One Went Mad

NORFOLK, Va.—(P)—Fifteen disheveled survivors of the sinking Saturday of the Greek freighter Tzeny Chandra arrived here Monday aboard the coast guard cutter Mendota and, through interpreters, told a graphic story of men against the sea.

The captain of the crew of 28, 7 of whom lost their lives, bore a bright gash across the nose to witness his story of how one seaman on a raft with him went mad in the harrowing hours before rescue and bit his captain in the face before he died.

Joseph Corrie, 40, English seaman, said he felt the heavily-laden freighter give two lurches and "I walked off the deck into water."

He couldn't swim, but grabbed a piece of timber and kept afloat, fighting off sharks that nipped at his ankles.

"I was the last to leave the ship, and he last to be picked up," he said.

All of the rescued men suffered from parched throats, but whether any were seriously ill could not be learned immediately.

Commander Henry Coyle of the Mendota said he was told that two crewmen jumped from the strick ship without life-preservers and drowned.

A third was pulled through his life-belt by a shark.

A fourth, the one who went mad, died on the raft.

Milburn Awarded $3,000 Damages

Federal Jury at Texarkana Returns Verdict for Hope Man

A federal district court jury at Texarkana awarded C. R. Milburn damages of $3,000 against the Southwestern Gas and Electric company Saturday as the November term of court adjourned.

The plaintiff sought $60,000 damages for personal injuries received at Hope when his car was in collision with a truck owned by the defendant. The mishap occurred last June 11. The trial opened Thursday morning before Judge Heartsill Ragon, of Fort Smith. The jury deliberated for a time Friday night, but did not return a verdict until around 10:45 a. m. Saturday.

Court adjourned at noon and will not open again this term unless a special session is called.

Code of Valor Links Brave Fighting Men

ARMIES change from age to age and the generals are all different, but the men who get in there and do the fighting are pretty much the same, now and always.
Like the cavaliers in Tennyson's poem, their job is comparatively simple—to do and/or die; and down through the centuries they have had an implicit and whole-hearted admiration for fellow members of their craft who display special skill at the grim business.
So that little story about the Chinese "suicide squadron" at Shanghai, and the hit it made with the European soldiers who stood on the sidelines, is a revealing bit of history.

THIS suicide squadron consisted of a hundred or so Chinese soldiers who had taken cover in a ruinous warehouse along Soochow Creek to dispute the advance of the Japanese. They got in there and stayed for more than two days, subjected to heavy fire throughout, going woefully short on sleep and food, and facing nothing but certain death if they didn't retreat—which they grimly refused to do.

Across the creek, in the international defense sector, was a detachment of British regulars—Royal Welsh Fusiliers. And the stout fighting qualities shown by these Chinese soldiers somehow got under the hides of these Britishers. So after a while, when the Japanese attempted a coup to drive out the Chinese, the British Tommies came to the rescue—unofficially, unneutrally, but effectively.

The Japanese came up the stream in two naval launches mounting light guns. The banks of the river were lined with the innumerable little boats called sampans, which are part of every Chinese waterfront. And what did the Royal Welsh Fusiliers do but show the Chinese how to mass these sampans together across the stream, tying them together with cables, so as to block the path of the launches? That done, they led them to construct a similar barricade farther down the stream so that the Japanese launches were neatly trapped.

NOR is that all. The brass hats felt the same sort of soldierly admiration for the dauntless Chinese. A British brigadier general and an American brigadier general joined in sending a telegram to Chiang Kai-shek himself, begging him to order the heroic soldiers to withdraw and save their lives. It was none of their business, of course; apparently the whole business just naturally got to them.

For that is the way it is, with soldiers. Fighting men are a class apart. They live by their own rules and are bound by their own code. They may not often inquire what the fighting is all about, and they frequently grow infinitely weary of the fighting itself—but they never fail to give their admiration wholeheartedly to men of their own calling who show unmistakably that they have what it takes.

Room at the Top

JOBS may be short these days, in the professions as well as the trades, but there is still an unfulfilled need for men and women of outstanding ability and training. So says William R. White, New York state superintendent of banks, in an address before Bucknell College students.

This, of course, is simply another way of phrasing the old saying that "there's always room at the top"; and the old saying is just as true now as it always was. The really superior person can always make a place for himself.

But only a few of us, unfortunately, are really superior persons. It is the opening for the average person that we're interested in; and unless there is some assurance that an ordinarily intelligent and skillful youth can have an ordinarily good chance of finding a job for himself when he starts out, young collegians—and other youngsters as well—may eye the future with misgiving.

The Family Doctor

T. M. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Physicians Believe Cold Sore Caused by Virus Attacks on Nervous System

This is the 21st of a series of articles in which Dr. Morris Fishbein discusses skin diseases.

(No. 311)
Cold sores occur most commonly around the lips, but they may occur anywhere on the body. Usually they cause burning or tingling of the skin, after which the group of blisters will appear.

Their appearance has been related with an attack of fever, prolonged exposure to wind, or sun, and the eating of certain foods. Many women have them regularly just before or during menstrual functions.

Most physicians are convinced that herpes or cold sores are due to a filterable virus—an organism so small that it cannot be seen through an ordinary microscope. It is believed that this organism affects the nervous system.

Other physicians are convinced that the sores are wholly of nervous origin. The exact cause has not been absolutely established and there may be multiple causes. Fortunately, herpes or cold sores usually disappear within a week. They may, however, recur.

There are many different treatments, most of them involving substances of a drying character. Certainly it is important to keep the areas clean because any tissues damaged by blisters which break are likely to be subject to secondary infections.

The ordinary drugstore cure involves camphor, alcohol, stannous and similar agents, one seeming to work about as well as another.

A physician may use stronger remedies, depending of course on the state of the blisters at the time he first sees them.

Few people consult a doctor about cold sores unless they happen to be secondarily infected or so many in number that they are a serious annoyance.

The cold sore should not, however, be confused with an attack of the shingles, which is also called herpes. The cold sore is called herpes simplex. The shingles are called herpes zoster.

NEXT: Shingles, or herpes zoster.

Yesterday the death of John Wentworth appears to be a murder and the police order a search for Jill when she fails to return to the house.

CHAPTER XXIII

IT was one of those things that couldn't happen. But it had. Patty told herself. She was staring at the front page of a newspaper. Night before last, while she was spending the week-end with relatives in the country, Jill Wentworth's millionaire father had died. Or rather, the paper today announced he had died from a heart attack after he had been struck by some unknown person. Police, the story ran, had found Jill "driving aimlessly about" early yesterday morning, and she had given "no satisfactory explanation of her strange conduct."

They were holding her, with other members of the family, for investigation. The worst of it, the paper declared, was that Jill wouldn't talk.

Patty flung the paper aside. No time to be reading newspaper accounts, when Jill was at her home battling police and their absurd suspicions.

A SUBDUED-LOOKING doorman let her into the big mansion. Patty crossed the entrance hall and mounted the broad stairs with contemptuous disregard of the official groups about.

Jill's maid opened the door of Jill's room, answering Patty's knock. Mrs. Wentworth had given instruction that Miss Jill was not to be disturbed, she said.

But Jill's voice rang out: "Patty, Patty! Come in."
"Jill, darling," Patty cried, when the door had closed behind the departing maid, "I'm so distressed about your father. I was in the country, and didn't know. Nobody ever reads the paper at Aunt Barbara's."

She put her arms around Jill, who clung to her, helplessly.

"They think I did it," came Jill's whisper. "Yes, they do, Patty. I can see it in their eyes. Mother told them about how surprised everyone was when I announced my engagement. And now that they know about dad's business troubles, they're insinuating I was forced by dad to announce. And that afterward I quarreled with him and threw a heavy object at him . . . which caused heart failure."

"They say I was running away from something, and I was," Jill said. "But I can't tell them about it."

"But, Jill, darling, you must!" Patty cried, horrified. "The police—"

"Yes, I know," Jill answered. "But you couldn't expect me to tell them I went to a man who didn't love me."

"Jill, you went to Alan Jeffrey," she said.

"Yes, I couldn't have him despise me utterly. So, as soon as it was daylight I drove to his place to explain about dad; how I had decided at the ball to announce my engagement to Milo to cave dad. It was 6 o'clock when I left the place. That was the time Miss Dexter and mother heard dad fall," Jill shuddered.

"Then, that's a perfect alibi," Patty exclaimed. "You couldn't possibly be in two places at the same time. Alan will tell them you came there."

"He may not know," Jill said in a low voice. "There was a girl there, and she answered the doorbell. Then I went away."

"Ardath!" Patty cried. Then, as Jill did not reply, "Of course it was. I always felt she was out to get Alan."

"It makes no difference now," Jill said, dully. "I don't love him now. I couldn't—knowing about Ardath. I was wild at first, though, and I drove around trying to get myself together. I must have looked dreadful because the officer who stopped me said: 'Pull yourself together, girl. You're going to need all of your wits now.' I thought he was talking about speeding. I said, 'Please let me alone. Jill pay the fine.' Then he said: 'Money won't help you out now, Miss Wentworth. They want to question you about your father's death.' Just like that!"

Patty patted Jill's trembling hands.

"They're right about pulling yourself together, Jill. Nobody in their right mind would think you had anything to do with it. Every-one knows you adored your father. All you have to do is to say you felt you owed Alan an explanation about announcing your engagement so abruptly, and had driven to his place. You can say after you got there, you changed your mind, realizing an explanation would do no good. You can say you saw Ardath on the street and she spoke to you. Which will be the truth, if only a part of it."

"I'd rather die!" Jill cried. "I could never ask Alan—or Ardath—to help me."

"All right, we'll think of some other way," Patty's voice was soothing. "Just leave it to me and don't worry."

SHE was thinking: Ardath and Alan are the only two people in the world who can help her. They've got to help. I'm sure he'll want to. I don't care how many blond women were at his place that morning, I still think he loves Jill.

"Did you see anyone else about that time?" Patty probed.

"Yes. An old woman in a thin coat. She was standing in front of the apartment. I took off my red scarf and put it about her neck, and I gave her a bill. She was talking about the time, and I told her it was 6 o'clock. She said I didn't have to tell her, because she told time by the sun."

"What did the police say? What made them think you and your father had quarreled?" Patty asked suddenly.

"The inspector said: 'Parents don't realize they make trouble for themselves when they're too indulgent. Are you sure you and your stepfather didn't quarrel about the expensive party you were giving? Wasn't it strange that you would have given such a party when his company was on the verge of ruin? Maybe he insisted on your announcing your engagement to young Montanese son of his banker. And maybe, after you did, you regretted it, and quarreled with him? Tell us the truth, Miss Wentworth. It will be to your advantage not to hide anything.'"

IT did sound plausible, the case they were building up, Patty thought unhappily. Oh, poor Jill, what a trap she was in.

"Well, I still say those detectives and police are stupid. They could try to place suspicion on anybody else. What about Barry? It seems to me—"

"Oh, no!" Jill cried. But her eyes were suddenly wide and bright, her face flushed. She was remembering Barry as she had last seen him: drunk, ugly, cunning. How terrible Barry might be all of those things. But he would never have tried to kill father.

She would never tell anyone about poor, weak Barry. How frightened he had looked today, avoiding her eyes. Ashamed. She wouldn't tell them he was up when she left the house. Not if she really died for it.

"Jill, dear, don't!" Patty cried. Jill had buried her face in hands and was weeping, despairingly.

Your Children

Helping Teacher to Don the Cloak of Authority

One of the contributing causes of maladjustment of the child in school is the separation in his mind of teacher and parent.

He may be inclined to regard his teacher as an enemy, because she is not personal, but puts him into a big machine with all the other little pigs and grinds him up as school sausage. He resents the fact that she does things differently from his mother. Defies her because she doesn't say, "That's too hard for you, dear, so let it go."

Dislikes her because she wears her hair and clothes differently from his mother. Isn't her boy, because she is a stranger and would be there anyway whether he were in her room or not. She is, in short a process rather than a person, and he isn't going to bother pleasing her.

There is a way to win Johnny and an easy one. He will go on forever, drawing a line between home and school, between home responsibilities and school responsibility, if things are allowed to go on. But there is a principle of behavior that applies to this situation quite simply. When the reluctant one persists in his open indifference, or defiance, he will be reached by proximity or association.

Home Approval Helps
In plainer lingo, when mother and teacher get together occasionally, the teacher takes on the color of home in his eyes. He associates her with his mother. They are friends. His mother approves of this outsider and likes her. She passes on the magic wand of authority to her proxy, the teacher, and Johnny is seeing Miss Barnes, or Miss Stewart, with new eyes.

In Parent Teacher meetings, he knows they know each other. But unless he sees it, it is like the governor of North Carolina meeting the governor of South Carolina. It is out of his ken. Beyond his world.

He needs to see Miss Barnes lending mother a hair pin, or mother passing her the cake. They don't need to mention him at all, but once in a while he should see them laughing and talking about the last movie, or fussing as women will, about the price of eggs.

Teachers are busy people, and of course parents can't be popping in on map-drawing or decimal-finding to visit over the fence, but ingenuity will find a way. Schools do well to invite parents in on certain days, informally.

Child Will Understand
Let the pupils see. Don't keep them off at arm's length. The more they mix with this new brotherhood, sisterhood if you like, the more they will like and respect the teacher who has

In Hollywood

Film Veto on Start and Stripes to Soothe Touchy Foreigners

HOLLYWOOD—Americans must be the most self-offending people on earth. Not only is this the country from which must come all the scoundrels, dim-wits and vulgarities seen on the screen, but foreign opinion now is so strong that we no longer dare show the American flag in movies.

This rule is enforced by the industry's own censors, who are anxious to make all pictures acceptable to our touchy cousins abroad. In consequence it's much easier to get Marlene Dietrich's legs on the screen, or a bit of risqué dialog for a comedian, than it is to show the Stars and Stripes through any patriotic representation. There days the cavalry can't even carry a flag when it gallops to the relief of a beleaguered stockade.

The trouble is, of course, that our colors are not pleasantly inspiring to movie fans of other countries. Sight of them in Italy, Germany, Japan or almost anywhere will set the custom-ers to booing, and maybe to rioting. What foreigners do like to see, though, are American villains. If a heavy even looks Teutonic he'll be protested by Germany. Mussolini is enraged by Hollywood's comedy Italians because he's afraid the world will get the idea that all his countrymen are heavy mustached, wildly bestial, hucksters and barbers. As for newly-rich burgarians and uncouth, practically people in general—they're practically always Americans.

The movie industry has found that there's only one country which even approaches America for good sportsmanship in all such matters of screen life. That's France. The French just laugh it off when they're satirized in celluloid.

Autographic Squelch
An autograph hunter cornered one of the upitty, broad-A movie stars the other day as she stood at the studio gate waiting for her car. The youngster produced not one but a whole sheaf of blank cards and begged her to sign all of them.

Flattered, the actress exclaimed in well-feigned modesty that she couldn't imagine why anybody should want so many of her signatures.

"I got to get a dozen of yours," the kid explained, "to trade for one of Myrna Loy's."

Muslin Breakers
Tricks of the trade: Instead of wearing bodies and fenders of armor-plate steel such as you've often wished your own car had, autos in the movies frequently are covered with the thinnest tin and have fenders made of soft lead. That's so they'll crumple realistically in carefully staged accidents.

In silent days some players registered yearning, sorrow, nobility of soul and other things merely by staring at a knothole or a chalk mark out of camera range.

Nowadays when you see an actor wearing a faraway, dreamy look while speaking lines, he's probably reading the dialog from a "gobbo board." A few players, notably John Barrymore, sometimes are unable to remember their speeches, so these are written in large letters on an off-stage black-board.

There's such a thing as being too tidy in the movies. When an actor appears on a set wearing highly polished shoes a property man will dust them with powder. That's to kill the reflection of lights on the polished surfaces.

Most of the hurbling fountains you see in the backgrounds of movie sets are all glass-enclosed. The streams of water run through tubes so that there's no splashing to spoil the sound track. Subdued splashing later is dubbed on to film between speeches.

Story of Sir Philip Lacking in Warmth.

"Astrophel" means star gazer. Sir Philip Sidney chose this name for himself in his sonnet sequence to Penelope Rich, his "Stella." Alfred H. Bill's use of it is the title of his biography of Sir Philip (Farrar and Rine-

If Philip had the indolent spirit his biographer would have us believe, it is difficult to catch him. The fabric of his chivalry is so finely wrought that no real feeling can break through. Mr. Bill claims that Sir Philip found all the material for the sonnets in his own heart. Nevertheless, they lack warmth. His lover's woes sound like so much amatory fireworks, not like any genuine conflagration. And his biography, like Sir Philip himself, is "admirable, but cold."—D. S. E.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children. Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the germ to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles are due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. We, The People

We are the makers. We have wrought the destinies of child and man. Since ever mind shaped out its thought, Or word or work began. We are the host whose brain and hand Set greed and profit up on thrones. Ours is the labor, ours the land, And ours, the bread and bones. We are the herds who daily crowd The narrow lanes; who tread the day With patient power, to silence vowed, And to the wider way. We are the masters. Ours to will The stern high purpose of the State. We are the market and the mills, Fashioned of love and hate. Now, therefore, we, the people, swear This day by the good grace of God, Peace—for the earth, and sea, and air, And plenty from the soil.—Selected.

Negro Woman Is Held for Murder

Monday's Proceedings in Hope Municipal Court Are Reported

Augusta Nunley, 22, negro woman, waived preliminary examination in municipal court Monday for the fatal stabbing of Arzella Witherspoon, 19-year-old negro girl, and was held for action of Hempstead circuit court.

The fatal stabbing occurred last Monday afternoon at the edge of the city limits on the Hope-Blevins highway. The Witherspoon woman was stabbed in the back and near the heart with a long-bladed knife. She died almost instantly.

The Nunley woman surrendered shortly after the killing. Police said the two had quarreled recently, the killing growing out of past difficulties.

Robert Stewart waived preliminary examination on a charge of carnal abuse and was held for action of Hempstead circuit court. Bond was fixed at $300.

Robert Rogers of Houston, Texas, waived examination on a grand larceny charge and was held for action of circuit court under $500 bond. Rogers is charged with stealing a Ford coupe owned by E. M. McWilliams.

The car was stolen last week from its parking place near the McWilliams store. It was recovered at Prescott half an hour later and returned to McWilliams before he knew it had been stolen.

Frank Davis, negro, waived examination on a grand larceny charge for the theft of the bicycle owned by Glenn Williams, Jr., several weeks ago. Davis was arrested in Shreveport last week. Davis and the bicycle was returned to Hope. Bond for Davis was set at $500.

Grady Reece waived examination on a charge of disturbing the peace and quiet of the Ralph Rogers family. Ordinarily such charges are heard first in municipal court, but after Reece

Yes, you can lead a horse to water, but you can't always be sure what he'll do after he gets there.

117 Road Deaths During Week-End

Thousands of Motorists Flock Highways on Bright Sunday

By the Associated Press

At least 117 persons died in traffic accidents over the week-end—some in wet, stormy weather in the East on Saturday and the remainder as a warm, bright Sunday attracted thousands to the highways.

Michigan led the death parade with 16 fatalities. Pennsylvania was second with 11 and Illinois had eight.

Other deaths by states: Arizona 3, Arkansas 5, California 4, Colorado 1, Connecticut 3, Delaware 3, Florida 1, Georgia 3, Indiana 4, Kansas 1, Maryland 4, Missouri 6, New York 7, North Carolina 1, Ohio 7, Oklahoma 8, South Carolina 1, Tennessee 3, Texas 4, Virginia 5, West Virginia 4, Wisconsin 4.

Negotiating with El Dorado High School, without a game this week, fell through Monday—and Hope will play Goodland, Okla., Indian Academy at Hope Friday night as scheduled.

Porkers Play in Capitol Saturday

Will Meet George Washington University at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Intercollegiate football of big-time variety makes its first appearance of the season in Arkansas this week when the University of Arkansas Razorbacks play George Washington University of Washington, D. C., here.

The game tops the collegiate grid program for the state and offers many Arkansians their last opportunity to see the passing porkers in action. Arkansas closes its season Thanksgiving Day against Tulsa University at Tulsa, Okla.

The only intrastate game on schedule will be played at Conway Friday between Arkansas State Teachers and Arkansas state of Jonesboro. The Teachers, defending state champions and undefeated or tied, are rated top heavy favorites over the luckless Indians. Parading Raymond Burnett, little All-America candidate, the Bears are classed among the strongest small college elevens in the country.

Conway will have another game on Friday between Hendrix and Tahlequah (Okla.). Teachers College, The Warriors trimmed Bacone College at Muskogee Saturday and are favorites against the Oklahoma Bulldogs.

Quachita's Tigers, travel to Cleveland, Miss., for an engagement with the strong Delta State Teachers College.

Arkansas Tech and Henderson State Teachers have open dates.

Swamp Ole Miss

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—The customers who like their football played in the zone had a gala day here in neutral Crump stadium Saturday as the Arkansas Razorbacks fashioned a 32 to 6 victory over the Mississippi Rebels.

And among the 15,000 spectators, there were a goodly number of the aerial-game devotees since they gave one Dwight Sloan of Van Buren, Ark., a considerable hand when he left the game.

There was plenty of reason for such a salute because their rival of Bob Burns for popularity in the old home town possesses a whip-lash of a right arm.

The Porkers, known in some parts as the "bussings" team in the nation, went to the air exactly 36 times, completing 21 of the tosses for 220 yards—so nothing of five touchdowns.

Sloan was the "pitcher" most of the time.

Lanky Jim Benton and Big Ray Hamilton, the flankers, divided most of the receiving with Quarterback Jack Robbins.

There wasn't any doubt about the crimson-clad Porkers being the class of the contest, their defensive tactics

A moderate processing tax. Continuation of the tendency in the South away from "utter dependency" on cotton.

He told the president that the most important factor contributing to the South's cotton ills was a lagging foreign consumption of the American staple. The United States he said, must take a share of the responsibility for the appearance of international trade restrictions.

"The United States this year will have nearly 10,000,000 bales of cotton to put on a world cotton market which seems to need only 3 or 4 million bales, he wrote.

Cotton consuming countries are disposed, he said, to buy cotton where they can sell manufactured goods in exchange.

"This country's high tariff made it practically impossible for them to do so here," he added. "Accordingly, as supplies became available they turned to Brazil, Africa and India for large quantities." He cautioned against this country resigning itself to a constantly diminishing cotton trade just because world competition increased. Certain of the newer producing countries, he said, will supply increased domestic demands, and an economic recovery in Europe will mean more consumption, and presumably some increase in the demand for American production.

DO GOLFERS APPRECIATE CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS?

It means a lot that famous golfers like Gene Sarazen, Helen Hicks, Lawson Little, and Ralph Guldahl, agree in their preference for Camels. They have found that costlier tobaccos do place Camels in a class apart. Listen to Ralph Guldahl, National Open Champion: "I've stuck to Camels for 10 years," he says. "I smoke lots of Camels and I've never known them to jangle my nerves. That partly explains why so many golfers are loyal Camel smokers."

And not only golfers, but people in all walks of life—millions of Americans—prefer Camels day after day after day, making them the LARGEST-SELLING cigarette in America...or the world.

SALESGIRL Elsie Schumacher: "When the rush gets me 'worn out'—it's me for a Camel, and I get a quick 'lift.' Practically all of us girls in the store prefer Camels."

WATCHMAKER I. C. Gorkun says: "Camels? Say, every Camel I smoke seems to be milder and tastier than the last one. Camels don't leave me feeling 'smoked out.'"

SPORTS WRITER Stuart Cameron: "It's mighty impressive how champions agree on Camels. I'm glad as any athlete that Camels don't get on my nerves."

DRAFTSMAN E. T. Miller: "I often feel used up during long hours before the drawing board. Camels give me a 'lift' when I feel I need it. They never tire my taste."

BANK TELLER John McMahon: "I'm handling money by the thousands. Jangled nerves just don't fit in that kind of work. So it's Camels for me."

AUTO MECHANIC Al Patterson: "In the garage business you have to catch your meals on the run. Camels seem to smooth the way for good digestion."

CHIEF SIGNALMAN of N. Y. Central R. R., John Geraghty: "Speed and safety—our watchwords—call for healthy nerves. Do Camels jangle my nerves? No sir!"

Camel spends MILLIONS MORE FOR COSTLIER TOBACCOS! Camels are a matchless blend of finer—MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

Big Herd Moves for Hope's Weekly Livestock Auction

Tuesday Salesday Shows Big Growth

From $261 Year Ago Sutton & Collier Now Gross $9,314

From its beginning the first Tuesday in December last year, when total sales were $261.25 and a crowd of only about 100 persons attended, the Sutton & Collier livestock auction on South Laurel street has risen to major proportions.

Last Tuesday, November 9, despite a torrential downpour of rain for 48 hours, the auction struck a new peak figure, sales grossing $9,314.95 and a crowd of between 700 and 800 persons attending.

The auction stand was moved the first of the year from its original location on South Walnut street to Laurel, where the proprietors, Aubrey Collier and Claude H. Sutton, have invested more than $1,000 in permanent improvements. A new office has been installed so that business can be handled with greater speed and accuracy, and barns and sheds have been repaired.

Although the big event each week is the Tuesday auction, actually a market is afforded livestock buyers and sellers every day in the week, a market man being kept on duty continuously.

This daily livestock market creates an important cash market in Hope, bringing much money to the city and keeping it here. Buyers come here from Little Rock, Hot Springs, Pine Bluff, Texarkana, Atlanta, Texas, Bluefield, Texas, Fort Worth, Shreveport, La., Habel, Okla., Camden, Davenport, Iowa, and Danglefield and Longview, Texas.

In addition there are a large number of southwest Arkansas farmers who buy for their own use.

Bill Collier, auctioneer of Broken Bow, Okla., who made the first sale for Sutton & Collier, is still with the

The original staff comprised the proprietors, Auctioneer Collier, and Bill Henry—while last Tuesday, November 9, the auction required the services of 21 helpers, all Hope boys except the auctioneer.

Ancient Babylonians began their day at sunrise, the Jews and Greeks at sunset, but the Egyptians and Romans began it at midnight as most modern people do.

Monday noon, November 8, Hope looked like a Wild West town. The Star shot this picture at the height of last Monday's rainstorm when Sutton & Collier, local stockyard operators, moved to town 243 head of cattle from the herd of the late Arch McIver. The herd came in from the west side of town, past the Plunkett & Jerrell wholesale grocer house, where the picture was taken, and wound up at the stockyards for the weekly auction last Tuesday, November 9.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it correct to have place cards at a semi-public banquet?
2. Does a gracious person ever make a joke or wisecrack at another's expense?
3. Is an ex-senator called "Mr. Blank"?
4. Is it good usage to say, "The amount will not be above five dollars"?
5. Is it correct to say "irregardless"?

What would you do if—
The chairman of the club to whom you are about to speak has given you a very complimentary intro-

- duction—
(a) Say, "I'm afraid your chairman has been more kind than truthful."
(b) Say, "I hardly recognize myself from the picture Mr. James has painted."
(c) Smile at the chairman and say "Thank you?"

- Answers
1. Yes.
2. No.
3. No. "Senator Blank"—whether he is in office or not.
4. No. "more than" or "exceed."
5. No. "regardless."
Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(c). It is not gracious to deny the remarks that a chairman makes—unless he has really made a mistake in facts.

Count Blytheville Out of Grid Race

Conference Rule Gives Pine Bluff First Title in "Big 15"

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(P)—Pine Bluff's potent Zebras tucked the first Arkansas high school athletic conference championship in their record book Monday and turned toward out-of-state opposition while other circuit members began a last gasp struggle for ranking positions.

Coach Allen Dunaway's charges nosed out Little Rock 7-6 Saturday to complete a string of eight conference games without a defeat. Under association rules, it will be awarded the title for no other team can compare with that record.

Blytheville, undefeated at present and with two more conference games to play, likely will finish the season with a perfect record. But the conference, in such a case, awards the championship to the team that won the most games. Pine Bluff will be just three games up on the Chicks when the final roll is called.

The Zebras meet Gladewater, Texas, this week while Blytheville tackles the unpredictable Jonesboro Hurricanes.

Little Rock, now in third place, meet Fordyce, a tailend club that hasn't won a conference victory. It should prove a breeze for the Tigers. North Little Rock plays Clarksville with the odds favoring Coach Bob Cowan's Wildcats. Forrest City, tied with North Little Rock, goes out of the circuit to take on Marianna and Camden, also in the upper division, rests in preparation for its annual Thanksgiving Day classic against El Dorado. Hope plays Goodland, Okla., at Hope.

Russellville takes on Catholic High from Little Rock in a game that should be a toss-up. El Dorado has an open date but Hot Springs goes to Fort Smith for a second division engagement that probably will see the Trojans push over members of their rare victories. The Grizzlies have not won a conference game and apparently are not scheduled to do so. Benton, tail-end club, remains idle.

Not to Play Chicks
PINE BLUFF, Ark.—(P)—Pine Bluff high school, its football championship claim safeguarded by a state conference rule and eight victories against no defeats, will not play Blytheville this season.

Blytheville, also undefeated in the conference, has won three circuit games and has two more to play. Anticipating victories over Forrest City and Jonesboro, the Chicks last week proposed that Pine Bluff arrange to meet them.

"We tried last year to schedule a game with Blytheville for Thanksgiving," Coach Allen Dunaway of the Zebras said. "We waited and wrote several times to get an answer to our offer. While we were keeping the date open for Blytheville they scheduled a game with Forrest City for that date. When we learned of this, we scheduled Oklahoma City high school for Thanksgiving. Now we have a full schedule and can't play Blytheville."

Four Teams Still Have Chance for Loop Title

DALLAS, Texas.—(P)—Various mathematical reasonings, favorite parlor sport after a Southern Conference week-end, Monday revealed that only the Texas Aggies and Texas are definitely removed as title contenders in the nation's most unsetting league.

Further clouded by Saturday's results, which saw the Aggies tie the leading Rice Owls and Southern Methodist soar to its high peak of the season to upset Baylor, the league was in such shape that only a man with a slide rule and a lot of time could figure it.

Out of all the Saturday doings came only one definite fact. None of the mathematical chances accorded Baylor, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Arkansas, will be worth two pennies unless someone devises a way to stop the Rice Owls' wild sophomore, Ernie Lahn.

Next Saturday at Fort Worth Rice faces a Texas Christian team that finally found itself against Texas.

Meanwhile Coach Matty Bell's Southern Methodists, experimenting with backfield combinations all year, finally came up with a great quartet of sophomores that plastered once mighty Baylor, 13-7.

The Methodists travel to the Pacific coast for a game with University of California at Los Angeles while Baylor has an intersectional date with Loyola of Los Angeles at Beaumont.

The Arkansas Porkers, through their league schedule, helped the league's intersectional record with a rousing 32-6 triumph over Mississippi at Memphis.

Texas and the Aggies both have all-plays this week.

Billy Says He Wants a 'Holm'

It's a well-known fact that marriage and careers often don't mix, so Swimmer Eleanor Holm and Showman Billy Rose, pictured above when earlier in their romance were current, will divorce their respective husband and wife and marry each other, they announced together in Denver. Then Eleanor will desert the spotlight which has broken up their marriages to Band Leader Art Jarrett and Singer Fanny Brice, to make a home for Billy. That's what Eleanor said.
